ENGLAND & WALES SOLICITORS

Player	Cricket profile	Professional profile
1. Jonathan Garforth 	Jonathan is a batting all-rounder who has the honour of leading the English Solicitors in their second world cup. Although New Zealand born, he has played for Australia in the Cambridge, Barbados and Delhi editions of the cup. He hopes to draw on his LCWC experience to lead what he regards as the most talented English team to participate at a LCWC on foreign soil.	Having obtained his LLB from the University of Queensland, Jonathan qualified as a solicitor in Australia before moving to the UK in 2010 to pursue a career in the City. He is currently a Senior Associate in Allen & Overy LLP's London Banking department where he specialises in retail financial services with a focus on consumer finance regulation and FinTech.
2. Ranamit Banerjee 	Ron is a frontline left arm orthodox bowler who deploys flight, drift and spin in equal measure to collect many a victim, particularly in the T20 version of the game where he has excelled from the Freshfields Angels in the annual Magic Circle T20 tournament. He attempts to bat when absolutely necessary, with a bit of Ganguly about him.	Ron qualified as a Solicitor in 2015. He is an Associate in the Structured Finance team at Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer LLP in London.
3. Andy Crystal 	Andy is a right handed batsman who, when pushed, can bowl (albeit very slowly). He played in LCWC II in Cambridge in 2009.	Andy qualified as a Solicitor in 2009. He is a Senior Associate at RPC's Commercial Contracts team in London, specialising in Sports, Technology and Outsourcing.
4. Matthew Drew 	A former wicket-keeper turned jack all trades and master of none. Matt last played league cricket for North Middlesex in London's Middlesex League, but more recently his cricket has revolved around jazzy MCC matches with good lunches. Hopefully a return to the fiery competition of the LCWC for the first time since 2009 will shake off the rust.	Matthew trained and qualified into the Corporate team at Hogan Lovells, before transitioning into sports law and embarking on an in-house career at sports data provider Opta Sports. He now heads the Integrity and Security team at Perform Group, a leading supplier of data and content to the betting market. Accordingly he will be keeping a close eye on the number of front foot no balls bowled during the tournament.

5. Richard Evans

Richard is a right-handed batsman who scored his first century at the age of 12 for Dulwich College. He plays regularly for the Victoria Dolphins in the Southern California league and enjoys touring with Hollywood Golden Oldies CC. He remains hopeful of scoring a second century.

After working for several years as a solicitor in London, Richard moved to White & Case LLP in Los Angeles in 2010 where he is a dual-qualified attorney acting for major aircraft leasing companies.

6. Tim Flood

Tim is a wicketkeeper and right handed batsman. He played in LCWC II in Cambridge in 2009.

Tim qualified as a solicitor in 1998 (being his fourth career) and is a partner at Mishcon de Reya LLP in London, heading up the Funds and Financial Services team.

7. Dann Irving

Dann is a right handed top order batsman and a more than capable net bowler. He made his debut for the English Solicitors in the annual fixture against BEWCC in 2013.

Dann qualified as a solicitor in 2011 and is currently living in Abu Dhabi where he works for White & Case in their Project Development and Finance team.

8. Luke Jennison

Luke is a right opening bowler in the Andrew Flintoff mould who is a very handy middle order batsman who enjoy success on and off the field. He is playing in his first LCWC having debuted for the English Solicitors against BEWCC in July 2015.

Luke qualified as a Solicitor in March 2014. He is an Associate at Ashurst's Corporate Projects team in London, specialising in Infrastructure Projects.

9. Sahil Kher

Sahil is a wicketkeeper and right handed top-order batsman. His frog-in-the-blender bowling action is yet to impress his club captain, but he intends to push for the pivotal ninth bowler slot next season. Sahil plays in the Middlesex County League for Acton Cricket Club. He also occasionally plays for Jesters CC, a wandering side where his questionable talent and rapidly decreasing fitness levels tend to present less of an issue. Sahil was the first English solicitor to score a century on debut when he scored a classy ton against BEWCC in July 2012.

Sahil is an Indian-qualified solicitor, and is in the final seat of his training contract with Herbert Smith Freehills LLP in London. He is currently working with the firm's Arbitration team in Tokyo.

10. Rob Kinder

Rob is a right arm fast bowler who can hit the ball a long way when given the opportunity at the end of a limited overs innings. He makes his debut for the English Solicitors at this LCWC.

Rob qualified as a Solicitor in 2011. He is a Senior Associate in the Commercial team at Bird & Bird's office in the United Arab Emirates.

11. Cil van der Merwe

Cil is a classy right-handed batsmen who is widely tipped to score heavily in this his first LCWC. Equally adept at wicket-keeping while being a useful right arm fast medium bowler, he is one of these multi-talented South African sporting prodigies who moved to England to play for Hampshire in his teenage years.

Cil qualified as a Solicitor in 2013 into the Corporate team at Wedlake Bell LLP in London. Cil is relocating to Sydney and will be joining DibbsBarker as an Associate in January 2016.

12. Sam Tetlow

Sam is a former off-break bowler turned wicket-keeper and right-handed batsman. He will make his debut for the English Solicitors at this his first LCWC.

Sam qualified as a Solicitor in 2015. He is a Junior Associate in the International Finance team in Ashurst's Madrid office.

13. Ali Rashdi

Ali is a right-handed opening batsmen from Swansea who is currently fighting an ankle injury sustained in vigorous preparations for what would have been his first LCWC.

14. Warwick Lindsay

Like most of the members of the English Solicitors touring party, he is a wicket-keeper who can also handle the bat and ball. Having played for Australia at the third and fourth editions of the LCWC, he has also played for the English Solicitors in domestic cricket against BEWCC. He qualifies for England team in this world cup having billed 2000 odd hours each year since moving to the City in 2010.

Like the Skipper, Warwick obtained an honours law degree from the University of Queensland before qualifying as a solicitor in Australia and moving to the City of London to practice in 2010. Warwick currently works as a Senior Associate for Clifford Chance LLP, advising on some of the biggest global project finance deals.

15. Tom Nevin

Tom is a specialist 12th man brings passion and positive energy to every cricket team he plays in. Dubbed Mr Wickham by the female members of his cohort at the University of Queensland, he is likely to make a big contribution off the field at this his first LCWC.

Tom was a class mate of Warwick Lindsay, Jonathan Garforth and Daniel Maroske at the University of Queensland where he studied for his LLB. He earned a University Medal as the top Aboriginal student in his cohort before qualifying as a solicitor in the Brisbane office of Ron Heinrich's firm, Tresscox Lawyers. Tom has been practising law in the City of London since 2011 and currently works in the litigation department of the London office of US firm Paul Hastings where he specialises in disputes relating to commercial backed mortgage securities issued in the years leading up to 2007, often over-rated by ratings agencies before being sold to institutional investors owing fiduciary duties to Mums and Dads who did not fully appreciate the risks of CMBS.
